“ Steve , Mike and family.
I am so sorry I did not know when Aunt Verma passed or I would have been there. She will be missed. I loved her and she always was so good to me. I loved to go to Straders, she always helped me pick out some really nice things. She always gave me encouragement and helped me in many ways.

“ A few years ago - after my father, and Verma's younger brother, Mack Tenney passed away, I visited her in home. We chatted for almost two hours. She shared a number of memories and stories with me - some quite funny. One of my favorites was about an experience she had with my father when they were quite young. One day on the very long walk home from school in the winter, they came upon a pond that had frozen over. My father, wanting to show off for his older sister, told Verma to "watch this". He then proceeded to take off running across the pond. Well, about half way out, the ice broke and he fell in, drenching himself in freezing cold water. Verma laughed out loud at her silly brother. He had a very cold walk the rest of the way home.

Verma shared many stories with me during my several visits and my telephone calls. She was always in a good state of mind no matter what her challenges. She had many physical issues as she grew older but she laughed and told me that "it is tough to kill a Tenney".

I know her family will miss her greatly but they will have many wonderful memories of the very special lady that Verma was. Here is a picture from one of my visits.
